“Good health and well-being” is the third of the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) that the United Nations have set for themselves in their 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

This means, e.g., that universal health coverage is to be achieved, maternal mortality is to be reduced, preventable deaths under five years of age are to be ended, universal access to sexual and reproductive care, family planning and education is to be ensured, support for research, development and universal access to affordable vaccines and medicines is to be provided, etc.

We will discuss the current state of affairs, ongoing measures and challenges with experts that are involved in international cooperation on health issues. The seminar programme also includes a guided tour of the historical centre of Helmstedt, which was a well-known university city in earlier times.

Accommodation in single rooms and meals/drinks at the venue are free of charge.
